THE LANGUAGE OF FOLDS

Three headings. Each with its own character.

A small guide to the finishing styles on our website. These examples illustrate the headings; your selected style, cloth and colour remain those recorded in your room specification.

01 / HEADING STUDY

Pencil pleat

Slender, closely gathered folds with a relaxed, softly tailored character.

02 / HEADING STUDY

Double pinch pleat

Paired, sewn pleats bring definition and a composed rhythm to the heading.

03 / HEADING STUDY

Wave

Smooth, continuous folds create a clean and flowing line.

OUR PROMISE TO YOU

Respect for your home.

Your home holds the things that matter to you. Being invited into it is a privilege, and the care we give your surroundings should be as considered as the curtains we create.

Care before the first fixing

We agree the working area and access with you, protect nearby surfaces and consider the furniture, flooring and treasured things around your window.

Consideration in every detail

We check the fitting positions and work carefully around your room. If anything needs to change, we talk it through with you before proceeding.

A thoughtful finish

We leave the working area tidy, dress the curtains and take you through their operation and care, so you can feel at home with every detail.

A NOTE FOR YOUR HOME

Every detail, chosen with intention.

The most inviting rooms are shaped by thoughtful details: the fall of a fabric, the warmth of a colour, the way light moves through a window.

Your curtain collection brings those details together. These pages record the choices made for your home, with a little inspiration to help you carry the look into the rest of the room.

Garden apex · Two-sided apex

Drawing room

Two-sided apex · shape guide only · use the recorded site dimensions

Your window shape · the chosen design is recorded on the following pages

Soft, generous folds echo the height of the glazing, with warm natural tones that sit quietly beside the garden.

THE CLOTH & COLOUR

Textured linen in Warm flax is the starting point for this room. With no pattern repeat to compete for attention, the colour, texture and fall of the cloth become the focus.

THE SHAPE OF THE FOLDS

Double pinch pleat, with 2× fullness. The sewn pleats give the top of the curtain a tailored structure, allowing the cloth below to fall in generous, organised folds.

LIGHT & PRIVACY

Your Ivory blackout lining helps limit light passing through the fabric. Light may still enter around the edges and centre opening; the overall effect also depends on the window and fitting.

THE FINAL SILHOUETTE

Touching the floor. The hem is intended to meet the floor gently, completing a long, continuous line from the heading. 2 matching fabric tiebacks in Warm flax complete the open arrangement.

Textured linen

Warm flax

- Warm chalk — The backdrop
- Natural linen — The soft layers
- Soft bronze — The finishing accent

YOUR FABRIC SELECTION

Textured linen · Warm flax

Illustrative collection · SAMPLE-01

Build a calm foundation with warm chalk and natural timber. Let linen, wool and softly brushed metal introduce texture. A deeper bronze or olive accent gives pale rooms definition without disturbing their quiet character.

An example for Drawing room

With Warm flax curtains, try warm chalk walls, natural linen upholstery or a textured rug, and a small soft bronze accent in a cushion and a piece of artwork. Vary the textures to keep the scheme interesting.

TRY IT IN YOUR LIGHT

Place paint, upholstery and curtain samples together at the window. Check them in daylight and under your evening lamps before committing.

CONNECT THE FINISHING DETAILS

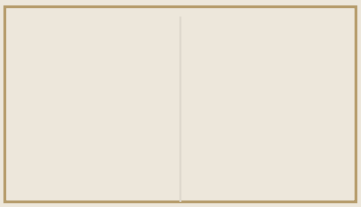

Bring the White track finish, Warm flax tiebacks, Bronze hooks or holdbacks into the conversation when choosing lighting, handles and smaller accessories. A subtle echo of one finish can make the room feel beautifully connected.

These swatches suggest complementary interior colours; they are not exact fabric or paint matches. Compare physical samples in your room in daylight and evening light before choosing.

YOUR FABRIC SELECTION

Bring the garden's gentler tones indoors. Pair muted green with chalky walls, oak and textured upholstery. Repeat a deeper olive in a cushion, ceramic or artwork so the room feels connected rather than closely matched.

An example for Principal bedroom

With Soft sage curtains, try soft stone walls, sage leaf bedding or a textured throw, and a small deep olive accent in a cushion and bedside ceramic. Vary the textures to keep the scheme interesting.

FROM OUR WORKROOM TO YOUR HOME

The day it all comes together.

Your installation arrangements will be confirmed with Apex. A little preparation makes space for the final details.

01 Before we arrive

Keep the route to each window clear and move small furniture, ornaments and fragile items away from the working area. Let Apex know about access restrictions or any changes to the room since the survey. Leave high-level work and heavy curtains to the fitting team.

02 At your handover

Your fitter will show you how to open and close the moving panels gently by hand, which panels remain fixed, and how to release the tiebacks and dress the folds. Review the heading, opening and hem position together against your chosen specification.

03 As the curtains settle

Allow the fabric to hang naturally and follow the dressing guide in this collection. Gentle daily use helps the folds settle; release tiebacks and keep the cloth clear of nearby furniture. Keep this booklet with your fabric details for everyday care and future reference.

CARING FOR YOUR COLLECTION

Beautiful today. Cared for over time.

A few gentle habits keep your collection looking beautifully at home.

Professional dry clean only

Professional dry cleaning only. Do not machine wash, hand wash, soak, bleach or tumble dry. Ask a curtain-cleaning specialist to check the sewn-in care labels, face fabric, lining, interlining and trims before treatment. If a label conflicts with this guide, contact Apex before cleaning.

A light touch, regularly

Lift dust with a clean upholstery brush on the lowest vacuum suction. Support the cloth and work gently downwards; never let it pull into the nozzle. Ask Apex first about delicate weaves, embellishments or velvet pile.

Blot. Pause. Ask for advice.

Blot spills with a clean, dry, white cloth. Do not rub or add water, detergent, stain remover or freshener. Keep heat away. Contact a professional cleaner promptly with the spill, fabric and lining details.

Keep a pair together

Clean matching curtains together. Photograph the arrangement and label panels by room, window and side. Ask the cleaner about removable hooks; leave sewn headings intact. Rehang only when dry and aired. Ask Apex to handle heavy or high-level curtains.

THE ART OF A BEAUTIFUL FALL

Dressing your curtains.

Four gentle steps to a beautiful fall. Follow the heading, and let the fabric lead.

01 / Follow the folds

With clean, dry hands, draw the curtain to its resting position. Guide the sewn pleats from below the heading towards the hem. For wave headings, keep the alternating forward and backward folds in sequence.

02 / Hold very loosely

If suitable for the fabric, use broad, soft, clean bands for a day or two. Remove them if marks appear. Never use string, clips, tape or tight knots. Ask Apex before banding velvet, delicate, textured or embellished cloth.

03 / Release and let fall

Remove the bands, operate the curtain gently and guide the folds. Never stretch the cloth, tug the hem or add weights. Let puddled hems rest on a clean floor; tiebacks should cradle the folds without crushing or pulling.

04 / Give creases time

Packing and handling can leave temporary creases. Allow the curtains to hang naturally and gently guide the folds during everyday use. Avoid tugging, home steaming or ironing; heat and moisture can damage the cloth or lining.

Small questions, thoughtful answers.

Natural changes, gentle routines and simple ways to keep your curtains looking their best.

A little time to settle

Fabric can relax after hanging, and humidity can affect its length. Let the curtains hang freely, release tight tiebacks and gently arrange the folds. Small changes are part of living with textiles; avoid stretching or trimming the hem.

Texture and sheen

Small slubs and variations can be part of the weave. Pile fabrics may look lighter or darker as the light and folds change. Enjoy this natural character; avoid rubbing pressure marks or pulling loose threads.

Light, warmth and damp

Limit prolonged strong sun and keep the cloth clear of heaters, damp glass and cleaning sprays. Ventilate the room and wipe condensation from the glass, keeping the curtains dry. Never apply bleach to the fabric or lining.

Easy movement

Release tiebacks and gently draw the moving panels by hand, holding the leading edge rather than the hem. If the fabric catches, check for trapped folds or nearby furniture. Some apex panels stay fixed. Never force movement or oil the track.

Light around the edges

Blackout lining reduces light through the cloth; some light at the top, sides or centre is normal. Release tiebacks, close the moving panels fully and gently arrange the centre overlap. Never pin, tape or glue lining to the glass.

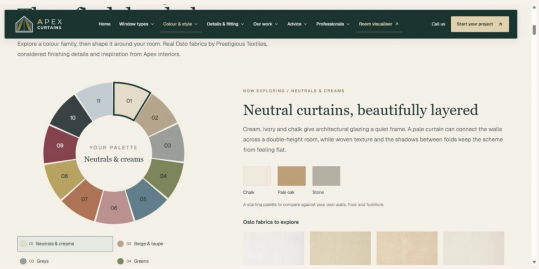

A little care, often

Regular care and good maintenance are the key. Dust gently, keep tracks clear and release tiebacks before closing. Guide the folds back into place after use and let the fabric hang naturally. Small, consistent habits keep your curtains looking their best.
