A home is made personal by the things chosen with care. This collection has been composed for yours, with every fabric, fold and finishing touch considered together.

With warmest wishes,
The Apex Curtains team

OUR PROMISE TO YOU

Respect for your home.

Your home holds the things that matter to you. Being invited into it is a privilege, and the care we give your surroundings should be as considered as the curtains we create.

Care before the first fixing

We agree the working area and access with you, protect nearby surfaces and consider the furniture, flooring and treasured things around your window.

Consideration in every detail

We check the fitting positions and work carefully around your room. If anything needs to change, we talk it through with you before proceeding.

A thoughtful finish

We leave the working area tidy, dress the curtains and take you through their operation and care, so you can feel at home with every detail.

A NOTE FOR YOUR HOME

Every detail, chosen with intention.

The most inviting rooms are shaped by thoughtful details: the fall of a fabric, the warmth of a colour, the way light moves through a window.

Your curtain collection brings those details together. These pages record the choices made for your home, with a little inspiration to help you carry the look into the rest of the room.

THE ROOMS / 01

Garden apex · Two-sided apex

Drawing room

Two-sided apex · shape guide only · use the recorded site dimensions

Your window shape · the chosen design is recorded on the following pages

Soft, generous folds echo the height of the glazing, with warm natural tones that sit quietly beside the garden.

THE CLOTH & COLOUR

Textured linen in Warm flax is the starting point for this room. With no pattern repeat to compete for attention, the colour, texture and fall of the cloth become the focus.

LIGHT & PRIVACY

Your Ivory blackout lining helps limit light passing through the fabric. Light may still enter around the edges and centre opening; the overall effect also depends on the window and fitting.

THE SHAPE OF THE FOLDS

Double pinch pleat, with 2× fullness. The sewn pleats give the top of the curtain a tailored structure, allowing the cloth below to fall in generous, organised folds.

THE FINAL SILHOUETTE

Touching the floor. The hem is intended to meet the floor gently, completing a long, continuous line from the heading. 2 matching fabric tiebacks in Warm flax complete the open arrangement.

Warm chalk
The backdrop

Natural linen
The soft layers

Soft bronze
The finishing accent

Build a calm foundation with warm chalk and natural timber. Let linen, wool and softly brushed metal introduce texture. A deeper bronze or olive accent gives pale rooms definition without disturbing their quiet character.

01 / BEGIN WITH THE BACKDROP

Consider warm chalk for walls and larger surfaces. Test a generous paint sample beside your Warm flax curtain fabric, checking both window light and the lamps you use in the evening.

02 / BUILD A SOFTER MIDDLE LAYER

Explore natural linen in upholstery, a rug or a throw. Use contrasting textures to add depth: a smooth cushion beside a more tactile weave can be enough.

03 / REPEAT ONE CONSIDERED ACCENT

Bring soft bronze into a small detail such as artwork, a cushion edge or ceramics. A restrained repetition across the room will feel more coherent than matching every item.

04 / CONNECT THE FINISHING TOUCHES

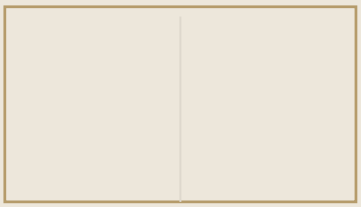

Bring the White track finish, Warm flax tiebacks, Bronze hooks or holdbacks into the conversation when choosing lighting, handles and smaller accessories. A subtle echo of one finish can make the room feel beautifully connected.

These swatches suggest complementary interior colours; they are not exact fabric or paint matches. Compare physical samples in your room in daylight and evening light before choosing.

- Soft stone — The backdrop
- Sage leaf — The soft layers
- Deep olive — The finishing accent

Bring the garden's gentler tones indoors. Pair muted green with chalky walls, oak and textured upholstery. Repeat a deeper olive in a cushion, ceramic or artwork so the room feels connected rather than closely matched.

01 / BEGIN WITH THE BACKDROP

Consider soft stone for walls and larger surfaces. Test a generous paint sample beside your Soft sage curtain fabric, checking both window light and the lamps you use in the evening.

02 / BUILD A SOFTER MIDDLE LAYER

Explore sage leaf in upholstery, a rug or a throw. Use contrasting textures to add depth: a smooth cushion beside a more tactile weave can be enough.

FROM OUR WORKROOM TO YOUR HOME

The day it all comes together.

Your installation arrangements will be confirmed with Apex. A little preparation makes space for the final details.

01 Before we arrive

Keep the route to each window clear and move small furniture, ornaments and fragile items away from the working area. Let Apex know about access restrictions or any changes to the room since the survey. Leave high-level work and heavy curtains to the fitting team.

02 At your handover

Ask your fitter to show you how your particular track operates, which panels move and which remain fixed, and how to release the tiebacks and dress the folds. Review the heading, opening and hem position together against your chosen specification.

03 As the curtains settle

Allow the fabric to hang naturally and follow the dressing guide in this collection. If the hem, folds or movement need attention, send Apex a full-window photograph and a close-up, quoting your collection reference. Keep this booklet with your fabric details for future advice.

CARING FOR YOUR COLLECTION

Beautiful today. Cared for over time.

A little thoughtful care preserves the softness, shape and quiet beauty of your curtains. These instructions accompany every curtain in your Apex collection.

Dry clean only

Professional dry cleaning only. Do not machine wash, hand wash, soak, bleach or tumble dry. Ask a curtain-cleaning specialist to check the sewn-in care labels, face fabric, lining, interlining and trims before treatment. If a label conflicts with this guide, contact Apex before cleaning.

A gentle everyday routine

Remove loose dust regularly with a clean upholstery brush on the lowest vacuum suction. Support the fabric and work gently downwards without pulling it into the nozzle. Take extra care with delicate weaves, embellishments and velvet pile; ask us if you are unsure which attachment to use.

Spills, marks and accidental splashes

Blot a fresh spill gently with a clean, dry, white cloth. Do not rub, scrub or add water, detergent, stain remover or fabric-freshener spray. Keep the area free of heat and contact a professional cleaner promptly, explaining what was spilled and the curtain's fabric and lining.

Before and after a professional clean

Arrange cleaning of a matching pair together. Photograph the hanging arrangement and label each panel by room, window and side. Ask the cleaner about removable hooks and accessories; do not dismantle sewn headings. Once fully dry and aired, have the curtains rehung and dressed. For heavy or high-level curtains, arrange assistance from Apex.

THE ART OF A BEAUTIFUL FALL

Dressing your curtains.

Dressing simply means encouraging the fabric to follow its intended folds. Work gently, with clean, dry hands, and let the heading guide the shape.

01 / Find the natural folds

Draw each curtain towards its usual resting position. Starting below the heading, arrange the folds evenly and guide them down towards the hem with an open hand. Follow the pleats already sewn into the heading. For a wave heading, keep the alternating forward and backward folds in their intended sequence.

02 / Encourage, never squeeze

For fabrics that can be loosely dressed, hold the arranged folds with broad, soft, clean fabric bands for a day or two. Leave room for the fabric to breathe and remove the bands if marks appear. Do not use string, clips, adhesive tape or tight knots. Ask Apex before banding velvet or delicate, textured or embellished fabrics.

03 / Let the hem rest naturally

Remove the bands, open and close the curtains gently, then guide the folds back into place. Do not tug the hem, stretch the cloth or add weights. Arrange a puddled finish loosely on a clean floor. Tiebacks should cradle the folds without pulling the curtain sideways or crushing the fabric.

04 / Creases need patience

Packing and handling creases may soften as the curtains hang. Avoid home steam cleaning or ironing unless Apex has confirmed a suitable method for the complete curtain. Heat and moisture can mark a face fabric or damage a lining. If creases persist, send us a photograph so we can advise.

LIVING BEAUTIFULLY WITH YOUR CURTAINS

Small questions, thoughtful answers.

Curtains are made from flexible textiles, so their appearance can change with light, handling and the room around them. Here is what to watch for, and when to ask us for help.

Settling, changing length or an uneven hem

Fabric can relax after hanging, and humidity or professional cleaning may affect its dimensions. If a hem changes noticeably, a panel hangs unevenly or the lining begins to show, photograph it and contact Apex. Do not trim, stretch or reposition the hooks yourself; we can check the original fitting and specification.

Texture, sheen and pressure marks

Slubs and slight variations can be part of a natural weave. Velvet and other pile fabrics can look lighter or darker as the light and pile direction change. Avoid rubbing or pressing a patch that looks different. Send a close-up and a wider photograph if you notice a new mark, snag or loose thread; do not pull the thread.

Sunlight, condensation and warmth

Protect the fabric from prolonged strong sunlight where possible, and keep it away from hot surfaces, damp glass and cleaning sprays. Ventilate the room and address condensation promptly. If you see mould or persistent damp, seek advice before cleaning; do not apply bleach to the curtain or lining.

Movement, tracks and tiebacks

Use the wand, cord, motor control or leading edge demonstrated at fitting. Release tiebacks before closing, keep the track clear and never force a snagging curtain. Some apex panels are fixed in place. If movement becomes difficult, stop and contact Apex; do not pull on the hem or apply household oil to the track.

Blackout lining and edge light

Blackout lining limits light passing through the fabric, but light may still enter around the top, sides or centre opening. If the overlap changes or a gap looks unusual, check that tiebacks are released and contact Apex for a fitting review. Do not pin, tape or glue the lining to the window.

THE LANGUAGE OF FOLDS

Three headings. Each with its own character.

A small guide to the finishing styles on our website. These examples illustrate the headings; your selected style, cloth and colour remain those recorded in your room specification.

01 / HEADING STUDY

Pencil pleat

Slender, closely gathered folds with a relaxed, softly tailored character.

02 / HEADING STUDY

Double pinch pleat

Paired, sewn pleats bring definition and a composed rhythm to the heading.

03 / HEADING STUDY

Wave

Smooth, continuous folds create a clean and flowing line.
