APEX CURTAINS

A NOTE FOR YOUR HOME

Every detail, chosen with intention.

The most inviting rooms are shaped by thoughtful details: the fall of a fabric, the warmth of a colour, the way light moves through a window.

Your curtain collection brings those details together. These pages record the choices made for your home, with a little inspiration to help you carry the look into the rest of the room.

Your rooms

Drawing room

Garden apex · Apex window · Warm flax

Principal bedroom

Main window · Standard window · Soft sage

Keep this collection close when choosing paint, furniture or finishing touches. Physical fabric and paint samples remain the best guide to colour in your own light.

COLOUR AND INTERIORS

A palette to live with.

Let your curtains be the starting point for a room that feels collected over time. The suggestions below offer a direction for other choices, rather than an exact colour match.

Quiet neutrals

Warm chalk | Natural linen | Soft bronze

Build a calm foundation with warm chalk and natural timber. Let linen, wool and softly brushed metal introduce texture. A deeper bronze or olive accent gives pale rooms definition without disturbing their quiet character.

Botanical calm

Soft stone | Sage leaf | Deep olive

Bring the garden's gentler tones indoors. Pair muted green with chalky walls, oak and textured upholstery. Repeat a deeper olive in a cushion, ceramic or artwork so the room feels connected rather than closely matched.

Let the light have a say

Look at fabric, paint and flooring samples together in the room, both by the window and further inside. Revisit them in morning, afternoon and evening light before deciding. Warm and cool undertones can change how neighbouring colours feel.

If the curtains carry a pattern, give it space beside quieter surfaces. Mix a larger motif with a smaller texture rather than several patterns of the same scale. Repeating one accent in two or three small details helps the room feel connected.
